BY CREATING A MODERN AND LIGHT-FILLED HOME, THE PROJECT AIMS TO MAXIMIZE THE POTENTIAL OF THE 3-STOREY HOME WITH LOTS OF OUTDOOR LIVING SPACES ACROSS THE ROOFTOP TERRACE, OTHER TERRACES AND GARDEN.

IXORA HOMES

A series of vertical concrete frames that divides the facade into compartments of rhythmic dimension establishes a distinctive and unique character. The openings rhythm as well as the shading system create standout features that grant each house a different aspect according to user experience.

The double height entrance foyer that acts as a transitional zone between exterior and interior leads to the complete openness of main living area. Unlike most ordinary homes, large glazed surfaces allow light to pour into the double-height space and fully open up to a garden in the backyard.

The sculptural staircase with a continuous void creates an atrium like space in the house where all floors interact and have visual connections.

IXORA

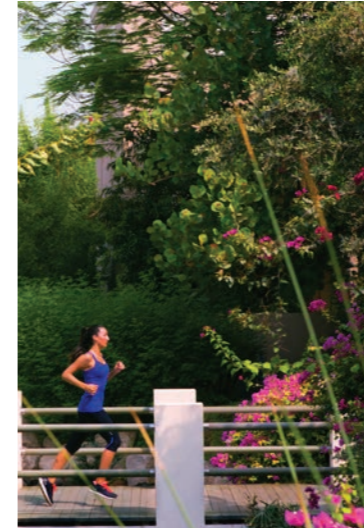

On the first floor, an open kitchen extends to a terrace above the garage area. The dining area overlooks the living space with a big void and the garden at the same time. Second floor has two bedrooms with private bathrooms and a master bedroom, with its en-suite, walk-in closet and sitting area. Floor-to-ceiling windows in the front and back provide natural light into the rooms throughout the day. Another master bedroom with its balcony occupies the third floor. Additional distinctive character is the terrace on this floor with a barbecue area and a dipping pool. This entertainment space, instead of being located in the backyard, has been moved upstairs in order to create spacious, resort style living space on the roof.
